What is a nature classroom?

A nature classroom is a dynamic nature based outdoor space that helps to develop the whole child.

- Research shows that children need authentic connections with the natural world as a regular part of healthy growth and development.
- We will have a vegetable garden, a messy area, balance beams, a building area, a gathering area for an outdoor classroom, a water exploration area and a sand area.

Balance Beam

Providing children with open-ended natural materials fosters imagination, creativity and analytical thinking.

The exploration of music, art and creative arts outdoors is a fun and unique experience.

Music Area

Messy Area

Research from many sources provides evidence of decreased behavioral concerns and increased health benefits for children who spend regular time connecting with the natural world.
